Stunning performance art with a powerful biophilic message in French; if you don't speak the language, the wondrous visuals tell the story (3 minutes 17 seconds).

I think it is a modern day form of animism, which speaks to me even though I don't understand the French.

Marvelous performance art set! Thanks for sharing. The opening image reminded me of a painting by Rousseau. Wondering if that was intentional. Certainly a "return to Nature" thematic.

When embodied epistemology embraces performance art and prime time popular culture you know we are in the midst of a cultural transit. At least the French are 😊

I think it is so impressive because it relates human bodies back to nature.

Yes, and there's a neat "ta da" moment at the end.

I do think perhaps rather than the comparison to the artist Rousseau ("Le Douanier" - Customs Officer), despite similarities in the forest/jungle settings, perhaps the comparison is to Malraux, that thief of cultural heritage who later held the role of official protector of same. To what extent does humanity today appoint and entrust caretakers who take more than care?
