

Pashtun Woman

Sent: Monday, June 03, 2019 9:29 PM
From: Ajmarsella <ajmarsella@gmail.com>

Pashtun Woman

Another nameless casualty of war! Is there a disorder which perpetuates a nation's fascination and compulsion to invade, occupy, destroy, oblivious to habit and reflex. It is now an addiction supported by individual's institutions, and covert forces serving as sellers and dealers. Tragic! Someday, should the world survive, a historian will write a tragic volume:

The Rise and Fall of the United States of America.

Tony

<https://anthonyjmarsella.com/wp-content/uploads/2019/05/Pashtun-Woma1.pdf>

Anthony J. Marsella, Ph.D., Professor Emeritus, University of Hawaii, Honolulu, Hawaii 96822

From: Lutz Eckensberger \(via iptaskforce list\)
Sent: Tuesday, June 04, 2019 9:40 AM

Dear Tony,

Thank you for the poem. May be you don't know, but I lived in Kabul for almost a year. I started to paint some of the scenarios recently. They make me sad and happy at the same time.

Enjoy
Lutz

From: Michelle Brenner

Sent: Tuesday, June 04, 2019 4:57 PM

Amazing art work, thank you for sharing, Amazing. You captured the beauty, the hardship, which leads me to feel compassion. Thank you so much.

kind regards michelle

Michelle Brenner

Holistic Conflict Resolution Consultant

Nature Forest Therapy Guide Certified with ANFT

member of Charter for Compassion <http://www.charterforcompassion.com.au/>

Founding member Holistic Practices Beyond Borders <http://www.hpbeyondborders.org.au/>

Phone Sydney Australia (02)9389 2005 mobile 04786 11244

Email: brennermichelle@hotmail.com