

Zeng, Yukun, Ph.D. Candidate
Department of Anthropology
University of Chicago
1126 East 59th Street
Chicago, IL 60637
zengy@uchicago.edu

Yukun Zeng is a fifth-year Ph.D. student in the Anthropology Department at University of Chicago. He studies how traditional Confucian literacy practices re-articulate Chinese parents' concern for their children and how they are adopted as educational, religious, or other social space given the cultural politics, psychosocial affordance, and value landscape in contemporary Chinese societies. Before anthropology, he studied geomatics and psychology.