

Dear ISTP members and friends,

In case you haven't seen it yet, we have officially launched the ISTP 2022 Conference website and kickstarted our ISTP 2022 conference dialogues and plans!

This year's theme is “Building Community: Theoretical Psychology in the Service of Social Issues.” Our goal is to bring together theoretical psychologists with other scholars, students, professionals, and community members to discuss various questions pertaining to what community engagement means and looks like in the current era, as well as how theoretical psychology in particular can play a role in building knowledge and research practices to address contemporary social issues. As always, we also welcome other contributions on topics related to theoretical psychology.

What you'll find on the conference website:

1. conference times, details, and all future updates (so please bookmark the site!)
2. access to the Call for Proposals & Submissions portal (submissions are due October 1st, 2021)
3. pre-recorded video presentations from our 2022 Keynote Speakers: Dr. Regina Langhout, Dr. Peter Pál Pelbart, Dr. Puleng Segalo, and Dr. Alexander Sidorkin.

We encourage you to share this email with your colleagues, students, and collaborators!

Sincerely,

The ISTP Local Organizing Committee

Consistent with the ISTP Privacy Policy (updated in 2018 following the introduction of GDPR), if you wish to unsubscribe from this listserve or notify us of a change to your email address, please contact the ISTP Secretary at: istp.society@gmail.com