

Psychology & the Other 2021

SEPTEMBER 17-19 | VIRTUAL

A virtual convening space for academics, clinicians, and students seeking dialogue about the human condition.

Human life demands the fullest account of itself — lest we fall into simplistic reductions, corrosive divisiveness, and calcified identifications. The Psychology & the Other Conference is a biennial convening space that models what it points to — a sandbox meant to allow for the play of languages, ideas, and formulations across fields and disciplines.

REGISTER TODAY: PSYCHOLOGYANDTHEOTHER2021.COM

Student discounts available

Why Attend?

1

Continuing Ed

Earn up to 24 CE's for APA, LMHC, and LI/LCSW throughout the conference.

3

100% Virtual

All sessions will be live-streamed, recorded, and available after the event.

2

Thematic Tracks

Choose sessions within one of 7 thematic tracks.

4

70+ Sessions

Choose from more than 70 sessions over 3 days.

Meet Our Speakers

Homi Bhabha
Harvard University

Sunil Bhatia
Connecticut College

Elizabeth Corpt
Massachusetts Institute for Psychoanalysis

Francisco González
Psychoanalytic Institute of Northern California

Derek Hook
Duquesne University

Jonathan Lear
University of Chicago

Shelly Rambo
Boston University
School of Theology

Mari Ruti
University of Toronto

Conference Tracks

The different tracks in our Psychology & the Other conference offer rich, yet focused, spaces to hone your learning.

- Plato Symposium
- Dante Salon
- Alien Salon
- Narrative & Psychosocial Dialogues
- Psychoanalytic Ideas on Technology and Subjectivity
- Psychological Humanities and Ethics
- Lacan & Race/Fanon & Phenomenology

What People Are Saying About Psychology & the Other

"I think of Psychology & the Other as an academic/cultural/humanist/therapeutic retreat that comes along every two years. It is the place I go to refresh my mind, feed my soul, deepen my understanding of the human condition, and commune with others who are searching for generative ideas and ways to sustain hope in this troubled world."

~ Elizabeth Corpt,
Massachusetts Institute for Psychoanalysis

"I have been at every Psychology & the Other conference since it first burst onto the scene in 2011, and it's my favorite such event to attend. With its carefully crafted plenary sessions and creative panels, this biennial gathering sparks needed conversations across disciplinary and institutional divisions. It's a high-energy dance party for your brain!"

~ Ann Pellegrini, New York University

"The Psychology & the Other conference is nothing short of an intellectual feast, one in which scholars and practitioners from all over the world gather together to think, learn, and speak with one another about questions and ideas that get to the very heart of the human condition. What's remarkable is that it all takes place in a true spirit of generosity and care. In a very real sense, it's no longer just a conference, but a community of fellow travelers, united not by uniformity of thought or practice but by a shared sensibility, one in which mind and heart are of a piece. In the world of academia, there's nothing quite like it."

~ Mark Freeman, College of the Holy Cross

"Psychology & the Other is a unique event convoking scholars of multiple disciplines around the central question: how do we live beyond the self? It operates on the basic principle that the best way from self-to-self is through the stranger. Psychology & the Other provides a convening space for these sets of concerns and ideas to be taken up in earnest."

~ Richard Kearney, Boston College