Subject: [DIV24] PHE Call for Proposals - Psychology and the Other Conference 2021

Greetings DIV24 philosophical colleagues,

As part (and truly the heart) of the Psychological Humanities and Ethics initiatives at Boston College,
Below is an invitation to submit a proposal for the upcoming Psychology and the Other Conference:

Psychology and the Other - Conference 2021 - Sep 17-19 | (website link)
Call for Proposals - Due Mar 5, next Friday | (submission link)
A Video Announcement on (Virtual) Change | (video link)

Our tracks this year include, but are not limited to... (a) Psychological Humanities and Ethics, (b) Plato Symposium, (c) Alien Salon, (d) Dante Salon, (e) Narrative & Psychosocial Dialogues, (f) Psychoanalytic Ideas on Technology and Subjectivity, and (g) many other topic areas and thinkers.

We welcome the wide depth and breadth of the psychological traditions as we think about human suffering, meaning, responsibility.
Due to the virtual platform this year, we are hoping for some rich interdisciplinary (and international) dialogues -
As such, we look forward to seeing some of your abstracts as part of the considerations and conversations.

We hope to be able to think more humanely and practice more ethically as we face the Other,

Pax Christi,
