

From: Keith Tudor

Sent: Monday, August 23, 2021 7:18 PM

To: iptaskforce@simplelists.com

Subject: Indigenous psychotherapy(ies)

Kia ora koutou/Dear All

I am looking for a contributor to a book I am putting together on “The Edge of Psychotherapy” which focuses on those approaches (modalities) that offer a critique of the mainstream. The proposed book already includes a chapter from a Māori colleague writing about the Māori world and its relationship to/with “Western” psychotherapy in Aotearoa New Zealand and am looking for another one or two chapters reflecting other indigenous traditions. I am specifically looking for authors who are indigenous and who identify as psychotherapists or with psychotherapy.

Please contact me with an expression of interest.

Ngā mihi/Regards, Keith

Keith Tudor

Professor of Psychotherapy

Auckland University of Technology

Chair, PCE2021

Recent publications:

Article: Rodgers, B., & Tudor, K. (2020). Person-centred therapy: A radical paradigm in a new world. New Zealand Journal of Counselling, 40(2), 21-35. https://www.nzac.org.nz/assets/Journals/Vol-40-No-2/Chapter\_2\_Person-centred\_therapy.pdf

Journal: Psychotherapy and counselling during and after COVID-19: Practical, political, philosophical, and cultural considerations [Special issue] Psychotherapy & Counselling Journal of Australia. 9(1). <https://pacja.org.au/volume-9-no-1-april-2021/>

E-book: 20/20 Vision, 2020 <https://ojs.aut.ac.nz/tuwhera-open-monographs/catalog/book/6>